CONGRESS DISPUTES.—There are seven members of the Fortieth Congress who have the certificates of election, whose seats will be contested as follows:

Pennsylvania, XIIIth District, Hon. Charles Dennison, Democrat, elect, vs. James Archibald, contestant.

Ohio, XIIIth, George W. Morgan, Democrat, elect, vs. Hon. Columbus Delano, contestant.

Indiana, IVth, W. S. Holman, Democrat, vs. General Ira G. Grover, contestant.

New Jersey, IInd, Charles Haight, Democrat, vs. Hon. Wm. N. Newell, contestant.

Maryland, Ist, Hiram McCulloch, Democrat, vs. Colopel Samuel A. Graham, contestant.

Maryland, IInd, Stevenson Archer, vs. Hon. John L. Thomas, contestant.

Maryland, IIIrd, Hon. Charles E. Phelps, Democrat, vs. Joseph J. Stewart, contestant.

The contestants in all cases are Radicals. Where, as in the XIIIth District of Pennsylvania, fraud was public and notorious, Congress will have less trouble in coming to a determination. In all the districts there is fair proof, circumstantial and otherwise, that the small majorities gained by the Democrats were won unfairly; those of Maryland, beyond question.

ROBERT STEPHENSON AND ELECTRICITY.—Robert Stephenson was very fond of reducing his scientific reading to practice; and after studying Franklin's description of the lightning experiment, he proceeded to expend his store of Saturday pennies in purchasing about half a mile of copper wire at a brasier's shop in Newcastle. Having prepared his kite, he sent it up in the field opposite his father's door, and bringing the wire, insulated by means of a few feet of silk cord, over the backs of some of Farmer Wigham's cows, he soon had them skipping about the field in all directions with their tails up. One day he had his kite flying at the cottage-door as his father's galloway was hanging by the bridle to the paling, waiting for the master to mount. Bringing the end of the wire just over the pony's crupper, so smart an eletric shock was given it, that the brute was almost knocked down. At this juncture the father issued from the door, riding-whip in hand, and was witness to the scientific trick just played off upon his galloway.

"Ah! you mischievous scoundrel!" cried he to the boy, who ran off.

He inwardly chuckled with pride, nevertheless, at Robert's successful experiment.

GENERAL LONGSTREET lately related the following anecdote in Texas: "On one occasion General Lee call Colonel L., one of his staff officers, into his tent, and commenced dictating while Colonel L. wrote. Colonel L. had in his mouth a pipe, and was smoking. The General inhaled the noxious vapor until his patience became exhausted, and then said, 'Colonel L., you can retire, and send me Colonel M.; he does not smoke.' Colonel L. retired, and in a few minutes Colonel M. entered, to whom the General commenced dictating, but after inhaling the atmosphere of the tent for awhile, he discovered it to be considerably impregnated, not with the perfume of roses, but the odious smell of villainous whisky, which he could not stand. Retire, Colonel M., and send me an officer who neither drinks nor smokes; I would rather endure the smoke of tobacco than the smell of whisky."

PRESERVATION OF BUTTER IN FRANCE.—On this subject the Journal of the Society of Arts says:

One part of sugar, one part of nitre, and two parts of salt, reduced to a very fine powder, constitute a good mixture for the preservation of butter. Sixty grammes, or rather more than two ounces of this mixture, is sufficient for a kilogramme, or about 2¼ pounds of fresh butter, which, thus prepared, remains very good a fortnight afterwards; its taste is very soft and agreeable, and it will last for years. There is also another mode of preserving, viz: the butter is melted and purified with honey, 60 grammes of which is used for each kilogramme, the two substances being mixed with care. An agreeable flavor is obtained, and it will remain good for a long time.

HOME OF THE INEBRIATE.—From the report of the Superintendent of the Home of the Inebriate in San Francisco, and published in the Times, we gather the following statistics for the year 1866:

Number of patients admitted, males 203, females 35; total 238, an increase of 82 over report of 1865. Of this number there were, natives of the United States 85; Ireland 82; England 27: Scotland 13; other countries 31. The average of patients 39. The oldest patient was 74, the youngest 21, both had the delirium tremens. The whole number of cases of delirium tremens was 143, thirteen of which terminated fatally. Dr. A. P. Hayne is the visiting physician and is mentioned in the report as being untiring in his attention to those requiring his services.

INCREASE OF POPULATION AND BREADSTUFFS.—The statistics published in the St. Paul Press, show an increase in the population of the vigorous and flourishing young State of Minnesota from 5,354, in 1850, to 360,000, in 1866. In the year 1858 Minnesota imported her breadstuffs. In the year 1866 she contributes to the support of the world eight millions of bushels of wheat; and one of her river towns will doubtless rank next year as the third primary grain market in America!

AN EDITORIAL EFFORT.—The following is the result of the effort of an editor to run a paper on his own hook. He had better give up the job and stick to his legitimate line:

Our Readers may somewhere have seen reports of Typographical execution made by Amateurs. these essays are in the main discreditable. This is our first effort, and we feel proud of it. We are now Independent of our primer and shall discharge him to-morrow! we can now manage our own business.

Salt Lake City, November 5, 1866.

The Constitutional Argument.

In our article yesterday, we remarked that the 1st Amendment to the Constitution restricting Congress from enacting any law "respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof," was not susceptible of any such latitudinarian construction as the Legislative Memorial gives to it. As this is a subject upon which the Church authorities have always laid a great deal of stress, whereby many, as we think, have been greatly misled, we propose to examine it a little further. The people are continually told by their religious teachers that the Anti-Polygamy Act is violative of this clause in the Constitution, and hence men and women, who might otherwise pause ere violating a law of the land, heedlessly and unwittingly under such teachings are induced to rush into plurality. Having full faith in the legal acumen of their teachers, they believe they are but exercising their constitutional rights, when they disregard the law of Congress, and practically embrace Polygamy. We have already said that that Amendment to the Constitution was placed there to prevent the establishment of a State Church, and preclude the possibility of a union between Church and State, the evils of which history and experience had shown. We design to quote briefly from a recognized authority on this subject. In the 2d volume of Story's Commentaries on the Constitution, page 378, discussing that clause prohibiting "religious tests," we find the following language:

"This clause is not introduced merely for the purpose of satisfying the scruples of many respectable persons, who feel an invincible repugnance to any religious test or affirmation. It had a higher object; to cut off forever every pretence of an alliance between Church and State in the National Government. The framers of the Constitution were fully sensible of the dangers from this source, marked out in the history of other ages and countries, and not wholly unknown to our own. They knew that bigotry was unceasingly vigilant in its stratagems over the human mind, and that intolerance was ever ready to arm itself with all the terrors of the civil power to exterminate those who doubted its dogmas, or resisted its infallibility."

Commenting on the 1st Amendment to the Constitution on page 591, the author says:

"It is indeed difficult to conceive how any civilized society can well exist without them (the great fundamental principles of religion). And at all events it is impossible for those who believe in the truth of Christianity, as a Divine revelation, to doubt that it is the especial duty of Government to foster and encourage it among all the citizens and subjects. This is a point wholly distinct from that of the right of private judgment in matters of religion, and of the freedom of public worship according to the dictates of one's conscience."

But coming more particularly to the object, intendment and scope of the clause referred to, he says, page 594-6, vol. 2:

"The real object of the Amendment was, not to countenance, much less advance Mahometanism, or Judaism, or infidelity, by prostrating Christianity; but to exclude all rivalry among Christian sects, and to prevent any national ecclesiastical establishment, which should give to a hierarchy the exclusive patronage of the National Government. It thus cut off the means of religious persecution (the vice and pest of former ages) and of the subversion of the rights of conscience, which had been trampled upon from the days of the Apostles to the present age. The history of the parent country had afforded the most solemn warnings and melancholy instructions on this head; and even New England, the land of the persecuted Puritans, as well as other colonies, where the Church of England had maintained its superiority, would furnish out a chapter, as full of the darkest bigotry and intolerance, as any which could be found to disgrace the pages of foreign annals. Apostacy, heresy, and non-conformity, had been standard crimes for public appeals, to kindle the flames of persecution, and apologize for the most atrocious triumphs over innocence and virtue.

* * * It was under a solemn consciousness of the dangers from ecclesiastical ambition, the bigotry of spiritual pride, and the intolerance of sects, thus exemplified in our domestic, as well as in foreign annals, that it was deemed advisable to exclude from the National Government all power to act on the subject."

Thus it appears that the clause of the Constitution appealed to by the Mormon Legislature was adopted, not to permit men or classes of men to do any and everything which they might clothe with the sacred panoply of Religion, but to extirpate and prevent the very state of things which notoriously prevails here in Utah. Freedom of religious belief, the right to worship God according to the dictates of conscience, is not only guaranteed by the Constitution, but is a fundamental principle of civil and religious liberty. But when this principle is appealed to as justifying all manner, or any manner of misdeed, it is a perversion of principle and the entering wedge to uproot civil society.

A GALLANT CHARGE.—A Brownsville paper tells an amusing story of a charge made by a sow upon the fortifications of Matamoras. Some wags of Cortinas' command caught the sow and, dressing her up in a fantastic manner, in raw hides, old tin pans and sheet iron, started her off at the top of her speed towards the city. With a noise like thunder she rushed madly to the very ditch of the works, when Santandos bravos, thinking by the clatter that a brigade of cavalry were charging the fort, fired a few shots, and deserting their guns, fled ingloriously to the town plaza. It was several hours before they could be led back to the fort.

A story is told of a well dressed man who visited a gaming house in Brenham, Texas, who, after losing all his money, bet his hat. That went the same way. His coat went next, then his boots and socks; and so on, one thing after another went, until his last article of wearing apparel disappeared, and finally he left the house with no covering but drawers.

With dynamite for blasting, the Hoosac Tunnel has advanced at the rate of about 138 feet per month. With gunpowder 64 feet per month is the best they can do.

DEATH OF A PROMINENT CITIZEN.—Wilson Flint a prominent citizen of California, died in San Francisco January 4th. Having intimately known the deceased for many years, we fully indorse the high encomiums of his moral and intellectual worth, which the entire press of California expresses in commencement of this death. The following extract is from the San Francisco Times:

"With foreign regret we announce the sudden death, in this city, of Wilson Flint, well known throughout the State and the whole coast as a public-spirited citizen and an ardent friend of liberty and human rights. For the past few weeks Mr. Flint had been suffering from a severe attack of chills and fever, and while passing through this city on his way to Los Angeles, became so alarmingly ill, congestion having supervened, that his wife was telegraphed for, and arrived here in time to attend him until his death, which occurred, at 8 o'clock last evening, January 4th.

Wilson Flint was born in Ohio in 1820, and was, consequently, [illegible] years of age at the time of his death. His earlier life was passed in the city of New York, where he was engaged in mercantile pursuits. In 1842 he went to Galveston, Texas, where he remained until 1849, when he came to California, fully impressed with the belief that a crisis in the affairs of the nation was impending, and that a civil war must inevitably result from the aggressive and dominant nature of the institution of negro slavery, to which he was a bitter and uncompromising foe. Building a warehouse at North Point, San Francisco, he engaged in the warehousing business for some years. He was elected to the State Senate from this county in 1858, serving during the term made memorable by a contest for the United States Senatorship, for which position Henry S. Foote was a prominent candidate. By his single persistent vote, Mr. Flint prevented a joint convention of the two branches of the Legislature, and so prevented an election from being held, thereby keeping Foote from representing California in the United States Senate.

In 1854, among the first who turned public attention to the vast agricultural resources of the State, Mr. Flint engaged in experiments in farming, and, by his industry, zeal, and the wide diffusion of his acquisitions in agricultural knowledge, undoubtedly did more to stimulate the development of this influential branch of California industry than any other man living. His ready pen produced numerous valuable treatises on the cultivation of textiles, hops, mulberry trees, fruit, and many other topics of a similar character. Of late he had paid earnest attention to the culture of silk, in which he was engaged up to the hours of his last sickness. His works upon the topics named will long be considered as the standard authority in California.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.—The eleventh annual review of the trade and commerce of San Francisco was published in the Bulletin on the 5th inst. It is very extensive collation of interesting matter, occupying thirteen columns of that paper, and seems to have been gotten up with great care. The following is an extract:

These statistics have been compiled with great care from official sources, and exhibit material progress as compared with former years. Our import trade for the past year amounts to about $14,000,000; an increase of $3,600,000 over 1865. Our export trade last year was the largest ever known in the history of this port, being $17,280,000, or an increase of $2,700,000 over 1865. Of the total amount last year, $11,800,000 was for California productions. To this amount our cereal crops contributed $6,747,000, and our mines $2,577,000. The value of the wheat and flour exported was over $6,000,000. The exports of wheat for the last half of the year were larger than for an entire year heretofore. Our wine product netted about $108,000 against $78,000 in 1865. The exports of hides and wool show a little decline, though during the past year they together aggregate $1,533,000. About 3,000,000 lbs. of wool has been used by our local mills during the year. This amount, it is thought, will be increased one-fourth the present year. Our exports of treasure were $44,300,000, which is about the same as for the preceding year. This does not include $9,500,000 of import duties, shipped to the East by the Sub-Treasurer on Government account. The amount of treasure produced in this State and Nevada is not definitely ascertained, as the returns are not yet all in; but it will not be far from $50,000,000.

THE DEATH OF GENERAL WILLIAMS.—After three hours of intense suffering from the effects of his wound, General Williams breathed his last at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Half an hour before his death he recovered his speech, and spoke a few seconds. He was asked if he desired to make any request as to the settlement of his business affairs, and he replied "No." He also gave the same reply when asked if he desired to send any message to his family. Finding that he couldn't speak, Dr. Harris cleared the room and bending over the dying man, asked him, "General, was this act intentional or accidental?" General Williams replied faintly, "It was accidental." From this time he did not talk with any one, although he recognized many friends by a slight pressure of the hand, or by a motion of his head. There is not the slightest foundation for the story in a morning paper to the effect that he explained how the accident occurred. He made no explanation of any kind or description, beyond uttering the words, "It was accidental." A few days since, upon the occasion of the suicide of Colonel Wainwright, the sad affair was spoken of in a party of gentlemen, among whom was General Williams, who entered into a discussion on the subject of suicide with more than his accustomed vigor. He took strong Christian grounds against it, denouncing it in the strongest terms, and delivered such an elegant dissertation on the subject of suicides as to charm his auditors with the eloquence of his language and the beauty of his logic.—S. F. Bulletin, Jan. 5.

THE MAN WHO NEVER LAUGHED BUT ONCE. The ass, though the dullest of all unlaughing animals, is reported to have once accomplished a great feat in the way of exciting laughter. Marcus Crassus, the grandfather of the hero of that name, who fell in the Parthian war, was a person of such immovable gravity of countenance that in the course of his life he was never known to laugh but once, and hence was surnamed Agelastus. Not all that the wittiest man of his itme could say, nor aught that comedy or farce could produce on the stage, was ever known to call up more than a smile on his iron-bound countenance. Happening one day, however, to stray into the field, he espied an ass browsing on thistles; and in this there appears to have been something so eminently ridiculous in those days, that the man who never laughed before could not help laughing at it outright. It was but the burst of a moment; Agelastus immediately recovered himself, and never laughed [illegible]

The fisherman resisted and shot Brown through the right thigh, making a very severe wound, and succeeded in making his escape. Dr. Murphy has extracted the ball. The police are now beating up the city front in search of the man who fired the shot.

Drytown, January 6.

The buggy of I. B. K. Church, while he was attempting to cross Indian creek at Finn's ranch, near this place, last night about dark, was overturned by the force of the current, and his wife and little son, about three years old, were drowned. Church, although considerably injured, succeeded in gaining the shore, but could render no assistance to his wife and child. The body of Mrs. Church was found this morning, about half a mile below Finn's, and that of the child about four miles below, near Mineral City.

Portland, January 6.

At Lewiston, on Christmas day, a man named Page, who turned State's evidence in Magruder's murder trial, was killed by a man named Elargo. Page burst open the door of a fancy house the night previous and inflicted a severe beating upon Elargo's woman. They met next day, when Elargo fired a double-barrel shot-gun, loaded with nine buckshot, the shot hitting Page in the side, passing directly through his heart and body. Elargo will probably be released, on condition of his leaving the country.

On Monday night last A serious difficulty occurred at Astoria. Two Astorians having a dance over a saloon some persons were anxious to go in. Fifty cents admission was demanded. The City Marshal in arresting one of them was repelled, he having no warrant. The Marshal called upon outsiders for assistance, when a general battle ensued. The Marshal was knocked off the wharf, and fell upon the rocks, on [illegible] below. His party sustained other damages.

Arrived [illegible] night, California State Telegraph Company's flagship Winged Racer, Commodore Haines, and sloop Telegram, from a cruise north. They report heavy weather, but sustained no other damage than the loss of the Telegram's tender. The crews are all well; they will be furloughed, and the vessels laid up for the season. The Commodore reports the various Indian tribes peaceable and friendly under the policy adopted by the company. They are generally much interested in the telegraph, and some are patronizing it.

The Russian American Telegraph lines are in most splendid working order as far as built. The weather at the mouth of the Quesnelle River has been very pleasant thus far, and only three inches of snow has fallen this winter. The weather up the country has been generally very mild.

The Legislature will sit on the 24th inst. The question of the removal of the seat of government to Victoria is exciting the people of that city. No apprehensions are felt here in regard to the matter, as it can only be settled by Imperial action, and Governor Seymour's known preference for new Westminster precludes any idea of change. The Governor is fast recovering from the effects of illness from Panama fever.

San Francisco, January 8.

At the Coroner's inquest on the body of General Williams, yesterday, no new facts having any direct bearing on the case, were developed. The jury returned the following verdict: We, the undersigned jurors, convened to inquire into the cause of the death of Charles H. S. Williams, do find that the deceased was a native of New Hampshire, aged about 55 years; and that from the testimony and his dying declarations he came to his death by the accidental discharge of a pistol, in the city and county of San Francisco, on the 4th day of January, 1867.

San Francisco, Jan. 7–2 P. M.

John Tyson and William Hayes were arrested this morning, charged with robbing Henry McClosky, and were before the police magistrate. They are both old convicts, but were discharged because McClosky was such a liar that the prosecuting attorney could not believe a word he said.

James Dougherty, a native of Roxbury, Massachusetts, and foreman of Gilfee & Risdon's boiler manufactory, was instantly killed this morning. He was superintending the lowering of a piece of machinery from the second story to the ground, and for the purpose of speaking to a man in the lower story, leaned over the hatchway, when the dumb-waiter caught him and broke his neck by jamming his head between the floor and the bottom of the platform. He was about thirty-five years old, and was married on Christmas day.

A manufactory for making printer's type of vulcanized India rubber has just been started at Dalston. This new style of type is said to be as quickly and easily made, and to be fully equal in quality and durability to the common type, the cost price being one-third of the latter. It offers the advantage of less weight as compared with type metal and it can be remodeled when worn. It presents particular advantages for stereotyping. The invention is American, and is said to be making rapid progress in England.

A NEW USE FOR THE SCRIPTURES.—In one of Wells, Fargo & Co.'s offices, the clerk, who is a bit of a wag, had occasion to label his letter-boxes. After labelling the boxes for ordinary letters in the usual alphabetical order, and preparing separate boxes for Spanish and Chinese letters, it occurred to him that he ought to have a box for the Israelites. Having no label, he took a small Testament and fastened it open to the box, so that the first line read "Epistle to the Hebrews."

FROM SAN FRANCISCO TO NEW YORK.—The distance from San Francisco to New York, via the Isthmus, is computed in Hall's "Hand Book of Travel" at 5,258 miles.

The Daily Salt Lake Vedette

Local and Miscellaneous.

TO ADVERTISERS.—The VEDETTE is the pioneer daily newspaper of Utah. Its exclusive circulation in every mining camp and city of Montana and Idaho, to which it gives the telegraphic despatches a whole week ahead of the Pacific papers, makes it the most advantageous medium for advertising in these four Central Territories.

OUR PAPER.—We are constantly in receipt of letters from all sections of the country, but from want of space have been prevented the pleasure of their publication. They all bear evidence that the subject of the affairs in Utah are attracting great attention throughout the world, and the entire American people are determined on some action on the part of Congress. We give below a copy of two letters received by the last mail:

BENTONSPORT, IOWA, Dec. 31, 1866.

ED. SALT LAKE VEDETTE—Sir: I accidentally saw a copy of the VEDETTE last summer in New York. I think, if efforts were made, the circulation of that sheet might be made extensive in the West, as everybody here is anxious to hear from the polygamists. Please send me a copy of the VEDETTE prospectus, and I think several here will subscribe.

Respectfully, W. A. CLARK.

WILMINGTON, OHIO, Jan. 1, '67.

ED. VEDETTE: Please send me one number of your valuable paper. I desire to examine it, and shall probably subscribe. I admire the way in which you deal with polygamy, the extraordinary spread of which is alarming. Before this new year grows old I hope the abomination may no longer exist, and if Congress legislates properly, it will not.

Yours, in haste, CHARLES C. MARBLE.

ALMOST A ROW.—Two friends who had for some time past rested their weary limbs upon the same couch, and nestled their heads on the same pillow, and, though not drinking out of the same glass, yet near enough to frequently touch each others, did yesterday break the ties of friendship which had bound them together so long. The little man accused the big one of having purloined his clothes, which was of course stoutly denied. The little one seized the coat collar of the big man with his left hand, while with his right he flourished an immense "Bowie," and together they marched in double-quick time to the residence of their mutual "laundress," where the missing articles were recovered by the rightful owner, and for all we know, the two are again united in the holy bonds of friendship.

TELEGRAPHIC.—The consolidation of the sections in the telegraphic line went into effect on Saturday, the 12th inst. The roses of York and Lancaster have blended their colors, and the red and white will in future work in harmony. The particulars of this union of sections will be given to our readers as soon as it can be intelligibly explained to us, as it is still rather muddy. We know this, that the result is a satisfactory one to all concerned, as it facilitates the workings of the operations, and enables the public to obtain information more reliable. Particulars in a few days.

NUISANCE.—There is no city in the world where the rights of the pedestrian are so entirely disregarded as in this. The ignorant Hoosiers who drive wagons through the streets, when they stop, it is almost invariably on the crosswalk, thus compelling the foot passenger to walk through water and mud, or go half a block out of his way. We notice sometimes that some persons, forgetting all rules of gallantry, indulge in conversation on the crossings, and even ladies are compelled to soil their shoes, or wet their pretty feet, in order to pass them. "Let's have no more of this."

OUTRAGE.—While walking through Main street, we were hailed by a policeman, with the announcement, "Here's an item!" With the rapidity of the tiger rushing for its prey, he crossed the street through mud and snow. To find in the wagon which was driven by the policeman, a body, not dead, as we thought, but "dead drunk." We turned away disappointed, but if the outrage is repeated we will Hyde" somebody, and "foot the "Bill" afterwards.

A CURIOUS CARD.—One S. D. Butler publishes a card in the Virginia Enterprise, announcing the fact that he had been discharged from the employ of the Imperial Mining Company, because he had discovered a "mouse" in the soup at the mess table of the employees of said company, and warns his companions from falling into the same error. Perhaps they employed a Chinese cook who wished to flavor the soup.

REGRET.—It is with unfeigned regret that we announce. that Lieutenant J. U. Gill, the late Adjutant of Camp Douglas, leaves us today. He has been ordered to join his company at Fort Sanders. He carries with him the good wishes of his many friends.

LUNCH HOURS.—Our "typo" made us say at the banquet—no, the "lunch" hours—at the Bank Exchange were between 11 and 12, when the true statement of the fact is that it was from off between 11 and 2 o'clock.

RETURNED.—Captain and Brevet Major E. Grimes returned from his trip to Bridger. Yesterday his jolly rubicund, good natured countenance greeted us with its usual "smile."

Go to Wm. Sloan's and get a pair of fashionable boots with the new patent riveted toe. 1t

SAN FRANCISCO TO NEW YORK BY RAIL.—The distance between these two points is given at 2,958 miles. The highest grade upon the route is in ascending the Black Hills, where a grade is attained of 105 feet to the for a distance of ten or twelve miles, the road allowing a maximum grade of 116 feet to the mile. The highest point traversed between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans is in the Black Hills, where the road attains an altitude of 8,250 feet (over a mile and a half) above the sea level, while the highest point of Hogger's Pass, where the road crosses the Rocky Mountains, is but 7,434 feet above tide water, Salt Lake City being 4,285 feet in elevation, and the summit of the Sierra Nevadas 7,042 feet. The parties having this great labor in hand promise to have the entire line completed by the first day of January, 1870, only three years from this date.—Sacramento Union.

NEWSPAPERS.—The apparent decadence of the Herald as the leading newspaper of the Metropolis is so marked as to secure notice in the circle of newspaper circles. The Herald has not gone back, perhaps, but its immediate rivals have been improved greatly, while the Herald has been standing still. Had its editorial page been conducted with ordinary tact, it would have been practically without a rival in New York by this time. It is worth while remarking in this connection that the London Times has also lost its place as the most influential and prosperous of the journals of Great Britain. The circulation of the Times is 60,000; that of the London Telegraph 165,000; the profits of the former $250,000 per annum; those of the latter $260,000.—Brooklyn Eagle.
